Andrews provide UK's number one heart charity with cooling equipment

Andrews Air Conditioning Services were recently contacted by the UK's number one heart charity in search of effective cooling equipment for one of their flagship furniture stores.

The client in question has over 170 stores across the UK selling homeware such as beds, sofas and dining sets, with the profits generated used to fund thousands of research projects nationwide.

After receiving several weather-related complaints from both customers and staff in the summer months, our specialists were drafted in to provide the customer with permanent climate control solution.

Our specialists visited the site to within hours of initial contact, to conduct a free survey and propose the best air conditioning package for the application, eventually deciding on two Daikin ceiling-mounted units which they installed in opposing sides of the shop floor, providing cool air to the critically hot areas.

Once commissioned, the air conditioning equipment worked seamlessly while seasonal temperatures were high. Thanks to our swift service, we were able to rapidly bring down temperatures on the shop floor as per the customers request - providing a comfortable environment for all visitors as well as staff.
